ABOUT ADRIA RENEE

Adria Renee is a graduate student, designer, award-winning geek couturier, and all-around fan girl from San Diego, CA. Raised in a household of strong and artistic women, she has always found power in all things beautiful and feminine. Consequently, she has always been comfortable owning the fact that she is an unabashed girly-girl and liked to play dress up for far longer than was socially acceptable (aka she's still playing dress up). Nowadays, she likes to make pretty things and spend hours consumed by tiny details, explore the intersections of fashion and fandom, geek out over historical fashions, bite off way more than she should be able to chew, and spend all her time researching and creating looks inspired by her favorite properties. For Adria, fashion is the ultimate tool of empowerment and self-expression and she is always looking for the opportunity to create pieces that celebrate the spirit of fandom and pop culture in styles that are classic and elevated.

STRIKING VISUALS

Adria Renee is well known for her ability to translate powerful images to wearable pieces by looking at them through a high fashion lens; integrating couture treatments like the feathered "salt" plumes above. She is drawn to classic silhouettes that are timeless and enduring, much like our favorite fandoms.

FINE EMBROIDERY

Skilled in a number of couture embellishment techniques, Adria loves to incorporate fine details into her work by using various hand and tambour beading and embroidery skills. Her signature appliqué work is featured across many of her original pieces and accessories, like the Jurassic Park inspired piece above.
